LADIES' DAY AT THE CLUBS.

C. A. C. and Carroll Institute Will Keep Open House to Their Fair Friends.

The fair friends of the Columbia Athletic Club will be entertained this afternoon at the club house on G street from 2 to 6 o'clock.

An excellent programme of music and athletics and dancing has been prepared. From 2:30 o'clock to 4:15 the musical part will be given.

Beginning at about 4 o'clock Prof. Crossby will, in conjunction with members of his classes, present a strong card of athletics and novelties, which will include work in the low bar or height and distance, trick barrel jumping, tumbling, and special board exercises, double trap, trap and bow, and high kicking and fencing. In addition to these Mr. P. Von Beckman, who is a visitor here from Texas, will give some remarkable work in hitting weights and general strong work-a la Sandow. Willis P. Sweetman, the well-known minstrel, will come over from Baltimore to render several songs.

From 5 to 6 o'clock there will be dancing. During the entire entertainment the popular Tuxedo Quartet and Mandolin Quartet will render selections.

The members of Carroll Institute have issued cards for a reception to be held to-night at the institute, on Twelfth, near K street. The several committees have prepared an

MUSIC AIDS THE NEEDY POOR.

Fifteen Hundred People at Convention Hall to Assist the Charity Fund.

The Marine Band, dressed in their brilliant uniforms, opened the grand charity concert in Convention Hall last night with the stirring strains of Fanciulli's Marine Band March. It was a fitting commencement to a delightful programme.

There were about 1,500 present to enjoy the musical feast prepared, and the only thing which detracted from the pleasure of those present was the coldness of the hall, which necessitated the bundling up in wraps of the fair singers. This was not the fault of the management, however, for the heating of the building was, it is said, commenced the day before.

The Washington Choral Society, Prof. J. Karpur, conductor, and Mrs. J. S. Thomas, pianist, rendered "The Heavens Are Telling," from Haydn's "Creation," and the "Hallelujah Chorus," from Handel's "Messiah." The 200 voices swelling out in the grand strains of these great masters was one of the best portions of the concert.

The Washington Lady Quartette, comprised Miss Myers, soprano, Miss Decker, contralto, Mrs. Decker, contralto, and Mrs. Taylor, second contralto, gave a selection entitled "Last Night," and in response to a hearty encore sang "Way Down

WANDERING MINSTREL HI

But There Are No Rags and Tatters About His Private Car.

HI HENRY'S ROLLING PALACE

The Veteran Minstrel Manager Goes from City to City in a Piece of Railroad

A chit-chat that cost him $30,000—How the Car is Arranged—The Library an Important Feature—A Cozy Kitchen.

A wandering minstrel, HI Henry, is a thing of rags and tatters? Well, hardly.

The above paraphrase from the "Mikado" could not be quoted correctly after he had visited the traveling minstrel home of HI Henry, the oldest minstrel manager in the country.

Although this is his first visit to Washington, thousands of people who have come here from the West know HI Henry with what they deem almost a personal acquaintance.

The wheels of his minstrel car have traveled over nearly every railroad line in the West, and for very early and large towns in the Western and Central States and in the South have not been visited by HI Henry during his thirty years' experience as a minstrel manager.

The veteran entertainer's private car is located on the Pennsylvania tracks, near the Fish Commission building, during the stay of the company in Washington. Thither HI Henry's front door is a little different from those on Connecticut avenue, but the greeting one gets on the threshold is as cordial as is given by any host in this broad land. First there is a little vestibule hall with a piano, because the heater stands nearby; then a handsome pair of portieres divide the way into the private office and library.

THE HUNT OF A LITERARY MAN.

This library is unique in itself. There is a separate mahogany compartment for each reference book, and when one comes to know that these reference books include complete sets of Appleton, Century Dictionary, Encyclopedia Britannica, Stoddard's Literature, and seemingly everything else that was ever published in this line, it will be readily seen that considerable mahogany is utilized.

From this room, which by the way, contains an artistic desk with a typewriter nearby, through a pair of portieres, in rich brown plush, leads the way to Mr. Henry's bedroom.

Here is a bath, with hot and cold water, medicine chest that would make a pharmacist think he was using too much space for a room, a plush velvet lounge, and all the furniture of a well-kept bachelor's household.

Those of Mr. Henry's minstrels who are fortunate enough to travel with him in his car are nearly as well as the unique character of the well-kept bachelor's household that was ever published in this line, it will be readily seen that considerable mahogany is utilized.

There are separate rooms for them, well furnished, with lockers, hot and cold water, and everything that contributes to the necessities of "life on the road."

"MUSIC IN PARVO."

In the kitchen, at the further end, is an epitome of the words "multum in parvo." Every utensil necessary to the best development of the culinary art is provided, and two chefs are in charge.

The ventilation of the whole car is Mr. Henry's own contrivance. It is patented and now being manufactured, and the royalties from which pay the inventor handsome amounts.

Mr. Henry is the sole owner of everything his company carries—his instruments, costumes, paraphernalia, etc.

"I say," he said, "with no desire to disparage anyone else, that I have more than twice as much invested as any other minstrel manager in America. I have spent $30,000 right here in this car and have fully $30,000 more invested in uniforms, instruments, stage settings, etc."

"But," said Mr. Henry, in parting, "don't expect to make money in this business unless you are prepared to lose steadily for four or five years and give a good, clean high-class entertainment during the whole period. After a while people begin to know you."

"This is my first visit to Washington, and I don't care if I lose $100 a day. I am going to come here again and again, for I have the utmost confidence in the character of my minstrels."

WOMEN LACK PERSISTENCE.

Mrs. Tenney Says That Is Why They Don't Succeed in Business.

Scarcely, at its last meeting, indulged in a spirited debate as to whether or not women show the same persistence and fixedness in business pursuits as men. Among many who spoke was Mrs. Gertrude H. Tenney, who asserted that while tradition was the first stumbling block, women had neither the skill to earn a livelihood nor the persistence to stick to an occupation.

"Her shifting condition in life makes marked business success impossible," she said. "No matter how clear her sky a cloud always appears, even if it is no bigger than a man's hand. As she advances in life physical infirmities retard her progress."

"If she is willing to study the two factors of a man's business success, she will see that the book agent, who is the same height and complexion, to a woman 11 o'clock means any time before 12. Then when she writes a letter she will spend hours in talking care of the letters, and she will be so plain and plain-looking, sign it with her initials, and no address, and wonder why it doesn't get the consideration that it deserves."

"She is inaccurate. The majority of you can recall a dressmaker who is not an incomparable Sappho?"

"In entering how often do you see a woman who is a very valuable assistant, but later at the head of an establishment?"

"There is but one woman whom we can look to as a model of persistence, who can conquer by her fixedness of purpose—that is the book agent. After she has left us and we have recovered from our indignation, we know that she is only exacting from the world what we all have a right to expect—a living."

"The two broad avenues which are open to women, in which she is crowned with glory, are nursing and teaching. The only successful occupations for women are those which require woman's attributes."

C. A. C. ANNUAL ELECTION.

New Executive Officers and Governors Who Are to Manage Club Affairs.

The Columbia Athletic Club held its annual election of officers and board of governors yesterday.

As the members of the club were so well pleased with the manner in which the executive officers had managed the affairs of the club during the past year, it was found at the close of the ballot last night that it had been unanimously decided, with one or two changes, to trust to their keeping the reins of government for another year.

The affairs of the club, as shown by the report of Treasurer Fugate and Secretary Shaw, are in a very healthy condition, and the officers deserve special credit, and the re-election of the executive officers proves the wisdom of the choice of the members last year.

The following officers and governors will serve the club during the ensuing year: President, Alexander Grant; vice president, Dr. William H. King; secretary, Alexander P. Shaw; treasurer, Gilman M. Fugate; captains, L. A. Wells, boatmen, T. B. Nolan and Charles Baker; governor of governors for two-year terms, S. W. Stinebaugh, H. C. Moses, J. H. Deussen, M. H. Harmon, Dr. M. P. Finley, and R. M. Stumph; one-year term, Charles Howard and H. S. Flynn. Members of the standing committees will be appointed at a meeting of the officers and board of governors to-night.

A-Other Danger.

"I suppose you heard about the mistake of one of the women voters out West?" remarked the voice at the foot of the breakfast table.

"No, I did not, what was it?"

"When they gave her the different ballots she tucked them away and then walked out."

"Where in the world did she think she was?"

"Out shopping. She thought the ballots were samples."—Judge.

John Marlow Under Arrest.

John Marlow, the alleged grave robber, who shot his father in the head on January 15, was arrested yesterday by Policeman Samuel Browne. Marlow is the same man who tried to shoot Policeman Brown about eight months ago, and served four months in jail for so doing.

LETTER WRITING FOR MONEY.

$20 in Gold

FIRST PRIZE.

$10 in Gold

SECOND PRIZE.

Who Can Write the Best Letter of

150 Words

To "The Times" in Answer to This Query:

Does Boarding-house Life have an injurious effect on the character of young men and young women?

This contest is inaugurated because—

First. The art of letter writing needs individual cultivation, and "The Times" desires to stimulate practice.

Second. The best of these letters will be published from day to day, and everybody will be interested in them.

Third. The subject is one that is of peculiar interest to Washington.

Do not forget that—

First. You must limit your letter to one hundred and fifty words. If it is shorter, so much the better, but if it is longer no attention will be given it, and it will not be entered in the contest.

Second. Write on one side of the paper only.

Third. Send your name and address, written plainly, with the letter.

A competent committee, to be announced later, will pass on the productions.

The date when the contest will close will be announced in due time.

Send all letters and all communications on this subject to the Times Prize Editor.
